SHELTON RECEIVES TWO GRANTS

Shelton State Community College is one of 23 state two-year schools who will offer displaced homemaker/single parent programs this year, and one of twelve institutions to receive sex bias elimination program funding for fiscal 1985-86.

The funds are available under the October 1984 Carl Perkins Vocational Education Act and will be administered through the Alabama Department of Postsecondary Education. It is estimated that approximately 27,000 Alabama women will be served this year through these programs. Both programs are available to participants free of charge.

Shelton's displaced homemaker/single parent program will be named the New Options Program and will be directed by Dr. Paula Sue Burnum Hayes. Wynora Freeman will be the advisor-coordinator for the program.

A displaced homemaker/single parent is defined by law as a homemaker with dissolution of marriage; current homemakers and part-time workers who wish to seek nontraditional employment; women in traditional jobs who wish to seek nontraditional job areas; women and others who desire a career change or to enter employment for the first time. The definition also includes an individual who is unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and has a minor child or children for which the parent has either custody or joint custody.

There will be more information about both of these programs during the next few months.

SUMMERSOUNDS

The Birmingham Jazz Heritage Bank will play Sunday, July 21, at 6 p.m. at Capitol Park. Summer Sounds is a project of the Arts Council of Tuscaloosa County, PARA, and Shelton State Community College.
